

Do Great Things for God

Free Resources

C.S. Lewis

Clive Staples Lewis, known as Jack, was born in Belfast. He loved to read, write stories and ask a lot of questions! Jack asked some really big questions like “Why does God let bad things happen?” At Oxford University, where he made friends with J.R.R. Tolkien, he kept asking lots of questions! Eventually, Jack started to read the Bible, where he found Jesus was the answer to his questions. His love of Jesus inspired him to write a lot of famous books, including The Chronicles of Narnia.

Family Project: Sharing the Gospel Through Story

C.S Lewis found the answers to his many questions when he decided to follow Jesus as Lord. Then, he wrote all kinds of stories to help others find answers about Jesus, too. Did you know Jesus and his followers also told lots of stories in the Bible to help people know the truth about God? We can tell stories for this goal, too! Start by reading Matthew 13 v 34 in the NIV and asking God to help you use stories to tell others about him.

Day 1: What Every Story Needs

Day 5 : Practice Sharing God's Story

- Pick someone you love and think of a problem they face and a question they might have because of their problem.
- Think about how the Bible answers their question with good news about God.
- Pray for that person, and then make up a story together or think of a true story from real life or the Bible that you could tell them to help them see that God cares for them. Maybe you can even write them a note or give them a call and tell them the story!
